THE 39 CLUES READING CLUB

A Universal Code (B)

As the stories about the Ghent Altarpiece that were recently released from the Cahill vault reveal, you don't necessarily have to speak the same language as the artist to pick up hidden hints from a work of art. Pictures are universal! Find a partner, choose a Cahill hint from the bowl, and hone your own skills as an espionage artist by drawing your object in the space below. Then have your partner guess what it is. If he or she guesses right, you both get a point. Then practice your decrypting skills by guessing what your partner drew. If you get it right, you both get another point. If time allows, pick a new slip, find a different partner, and see how much you've improved with practice.
