

Booktalk!

All the Lovely Bad Ones

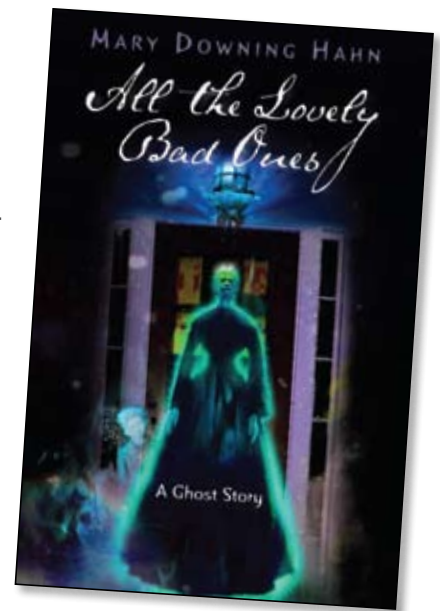

Written by Mary Downing Hahn

Booktalk!

Travis and his sister Corey just want to have some fun while visiting their grandmother's bed and breakfast this summer. They have heard the inn used to be haunted, so they decide to dress as ghosts.

At midnight, they go outside into the nearby grove and scare some guests with horrifying noises. Not only does it get the attention of the current guests and their very serious, non-ghost-believing grandmother, but it also alerts the longtime caretakers of the inn, Mr. and Mrs. Webster.

The news that a real ghost is at the inn brings more tourists interested in ghost hunting. But the real ghosts at Fox Hill have been stirred and they will not rest until the truth of their deaths, many years before, has been told. Travis and Corey are now utterly frightened, but they have unleashed a force that will not rest without their help. Here is a ghost story that is spooky enough to keep the lights on all night and make you question every cold wind you feel.
