SCHOOL OF FEAR

Booktalk!

Fears are not funny, except in this story about four 12-year-olds who are paralyzed by theirs.

Madeleine is petrified of all bugs, especially spiders, so she sprays repellent around herself and wears mosquito netting.

Garrison is a hunk and a super athlete, but he turns to jelly when facing large bodies of water, from swimming pools to lakes.

Lulu is terrified of small spaces and avoids them at all costs.

And Theo is not only afraid of death – he also imagines terrible things happening to his family at all times.

The fearful four meet at the School of Fear, run by the hilarious Mrs. Wellington. You have never met a teacher like her and, with her bizarre solutions to overcoming fears, you'll never forget her either!

Best for ages 9–12
