

A Dog's Porpoise

by M. C. Ross

Booktalk!

Bangor, a harbor porpoise, is always adventurous. Harbor porpoises usually live in one place, but Bangor wants to swim in any direction that offers a chance to make new friends and eat fish. During a big storm, huge waves separate him from his family. When Natalie sneaks Lars, a stray dog, onto her father's fishing boat, they encounter the same storm. Lars is thrown overboard into the dark, stormy waters, but will Bangor rescue him? Will three completely different species become friends where the water meets the land?
