Foodimal Fun (page 1 of 2)

Teachers: Challenge your grades 1–3 students to come up with their own zany food-and-animal hybrid! Encourage them to sketch and measure a Foodimal creation, and to also describe it in words.

See below for fun Foodimal characters featured in the Measure Up! math-skills program at scholastic.com/measureup. These Foodimals can be seen in Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs 2, the new animated comedy coming to theaters September 27.

BANANOSTRICH is a yellow banana with ostrich legs added.

CARROT is organic, orange, and observant. He doesn't have much to say!

FRUIT COCKATIEL is an exotic bird with a pear body, pineapple-cherry eyes, and banana-peel feathers.

BARRY is a shy, young strawberry that befriends Flint and his friends upon their arrival on the transformed island of Swallow Falls. He's a sweet little guy!

CUCUMBIRDY is a flying cucumber.

HIPBOTATOMUS is a potato with a butter tongue and chive teeth that lives in the river.

CANTALOPE is an antelope made out of a cantaloupe.

FLAMANGO is a mango turned into part bird. She is originally from the Everglades in Florida.

KIWI BIRD is a green kiwi fruit that has changed into a bird.

LEEK is the living leek vegetable, rich in iron and grown from a bulb... but harmful to boats!

PICKLES are a friendly tribe of living salty cucumbers. They come in all different sizes and personalities, including Classy, Sweet, Dill, and Sour. Sweet has a pet onion named Pearl.

MEATBALRUS is a meatball with breadstick tusks and thin pasta whiskers.

SASQUASH is the legendary mountain-dwelling creature created from...squash.

WATERMELOPHANT is a combination of an elephant and a watermelon.

MOSQUITOAST is made up of browned bread slices with raisin eyes and a cinnamon stick beak.

TOMATO is simply a tomato come to life.

WILD SCALLION is a gentle vegetarian giant made of long green onions.
