Tony and Sallie's family got ready for the Great American Fire Drill. Mom and Dad tested the smoke alarms. They called the kids into the kitchen. Clover the dog was there, too. There was a big sheet of paper on the table.

"Hey, that's our house!" Sallie said. "I see all the rooms!"

"Right!" said Dad. "This drawing will help us plan our fire drill."

"I'll circle two ways out of every room!" said Tony. He circled all the windows and doors.

Sallie said, "I'll draw in the smoke alarms." She drew red smoke alarms on the plan.

Clover barked. He marked the drawing with his wet nose. Tony said, "Clover knows we need a family meeting place. He circled the big tree next door!"

Mom said, "Does anyone know what to do next?"

"Practice our escape plan!" said Tony and Sallie.
