

Marketplace Rules

- Everyone must show decorum, so there is no running in the market place.
- In order for everyone to hear clearly to make a trade, there is no shouting in the market place. You must use a “one foot” voice.
- You may only trade with one person at a time. You may not approach a person who is already engaged in barter.
- All townsmen are worthy of respect. Anyone trading in our market must show respect in their voice and words to others.
- As long as the market is officially open, you may continue to trade if you wish. You can make as many trades as you want.
- The governor will settle all disputes. The governor’s decision is final.
- If the sun sets and you have not made a trade, the market is still closed, and you may keep the item you brought.
- When the market closes, you are to bring whatever item you have to the town square and sit down.
