

DEMO INSTRUCTIONS:

This is truly a beta version of the final FreedomFlix™ product – meaning we have one functioning unit/title of the finished product!

The unit/title that works is The Space Race.

You can get to it in any of the following 3 ways:

- clicking on the main graphic on the home page
- clicking on the book image in the title scroll on the bottom of the home page
- clicking on the category “The 20th Century” above the main image on the home page – then click on the book image of The Space Race

Once you’re on The Space Race unit/title page, you’ll notice the familiar layout and navigation options similar to TrueFlix. From there, you can view the following features:

- Watch It – watch the intro video
- Read It – Launch the e-book flipbook and explore all the features such as:
 - Read Aloud option
 - Glossary function
 - Embedded pop-ups and primary source media – see page 23 for a great example of this
 - Highlight passages*
 - Take notes*
 - Bookmark a page*

(please note these three last features work in the demo, however changes will not be saved as part of this demo. These features are part of our digital locker option and will work only if the digital locker preference is turned on).*

- Explore More – the additional GO articles, primary source materials, fiction, poems, etc that are included with every title – for the demo, the first GO article is live
- Related Web Sites – List of related web sites listed to extend the learning (these web sites are not live in the demo)
- Project Idea – Sample project idea is listed for The Space Race
- What Do You Think? – Three thought provoking questions meant to foster further thinking/discussion about the related title (in this case The Space Race)
- Show What You Know quiz – 10 question multiple choice quiz – for this demo we only show one question and the true/false function does not work
