

A FOCUS ON AIR PRESSURE

Take a look at the image below to discover exactly where a NASCAR racecar experiences pressure. The areas of high PSI are the areas of the racecar that receive the most downforce. As the higher amounts of pounds per square inch push down on the racecar, it experiences more traction and sticks to the track.

