A note or e-mail to a friend may look ordinary, but in the spy world, things are not always what they seem. If spies have a code system in place, a secret message can be hidden in an innocent letter. Try to find the message hidden in the note below.

Hey Justin,

Please come to my house for lunch. Come as early as you want. Ray's going to be there, too. Pizza will be served! Noon would be great, if you can make it then. Bring your camera. Spy X has given me some great ideas for starting our own spy club.

The trick of it: The first word in each sentence forms a secret message!
