

Lesson 1*Fictional Narrative

Write about one or more of the following ideas.

1. Where am I?

Think about a time when you were lost. What did you do? How did you solve the problem?

2. “I can barely hear myself THINK!”

You can't concentrate on your homework because there's too much noise. Your neighbor or sibling likes their music LOUD. What can you do to solve the problem?

3. What to do?

A good friend wants you to go to a movie on Saturday afternoon. Another good friend wants you to go to a game. You can't do both. You accidentally agreed to do both. How do you solve the problem?

4. Make up your own!

Tell about any problem. Remember to include attempts to solve the problem. And don't forget the solution!

People use different types of sentences for different reasons when speaking or writing:

- A declarative sentence makes a statement and ends with a period (.).
- An interrogative sentence asks a question and ends with a question mark (?).
- An imperative sentence gives a command or makes a request. It ends with a period (.) or an exclamation point (!).
- An exclamatory sentence shows that you are excited or have strong feelings. It ends with an exclamation point (!).

You have tickets for a movie, but you're late. Write one declarative sentence, one interrogative sentence, one imperative sentence, and one exclamatory sentence about the event.
