Everybody Loves a Superhero, Especially the Hilarious Wedgie-wielding Captain Underpants!

Encourage your students to create their own superhero. Brainstorm a list of character traits that would be especially helpful for a superhero to possess. Post your list in a prominent place in your classroom. Have your students draw a picture of their original superhero. Next, ask them to create a story starring their new superhero. Suggest that the superhero act in ways that demonstrate some of the character traits you brainstormed as a class. Finally, allow students to illustrate the finished stories. Think about publishing them as comic strips!

Get Kids Excited About Reading by Showcasing Your Favorite Book

Create posters of your favorite Dav Pilkey books. Be sure to include the main characters, the setting, the problem, and maybe one or two events. Don't advertise the solution since that would be a 'spoiler' for the other readers in your school. Let readers know why they should read Dav Pilkey's books. Would it be for the humor, the wacky inventions, or George and Harold's heroic adventures? Hang the finished posters throughout your school for everyone to enjoy!
