

Book Talk

Third Grade

SARAH: I finished this book last night. Have any of you read Geronimo Stilton before? This was my first book. This book was so good. I think you guys would really enjoy this book. First of all, look at it. It's so colorful. And he's got, like, pictures in here, and a treasure map.

Because in this Geronimo Stilton book, Geronimo Stilton and his family—his sister Thea, his obnoxious cousin Trap, and his little nephew Benjamin—are going on a treasure hunt. His sister Thea gets this treasure map and says, "Let's go find the treasure." And when his sister Thea wants to do something, Geronimo Stilton has no choice but to do it.

Do some of you have siblings like that? That are so obnoxious, and so persistent, that when they're like "Do it, do it, do it," and you have to do it?

Well, so, they get a ship, and these mice decide to go look for this treasure. And they run into some problems. Like a shipwreck! Food poisoning! People on the ship who aren't supposed to be on the ship!

So, if anyone's looking for a new book to read today, that wants an adventure, I would definitely recommend finding a Geronimo Stilton book in our library. Or I have this one right here. Is there anyone who wants this book?

There you go, Aiden.

Do we have any other friends that have read any books that they wanted to share? That they would like to pass on to people?

Did you have a book?

STUDENT: This is the book Super-Secret Valentine, Ready, Freddy! by Abby Klein. In this book, he likes this girl Jessie, and he's making Valentines at his house, and his sister caught him making the biggest one for Jessie.

SARAH: He's got an obnoxious sister, too?

Is there anyone in this room that you think would enjoy reading that book? Who you wanna pass that title on to?

We have a tub of those books, don't we, over in our library? So if anyone else wants to get a Ready, Freddy! Book, we have a whole drawer of them over there in our library.

All right, readers. Head on back to your desk and you may go read.
