

Ten Little Fish

Ten little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

Nine little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

Eight little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

Seven little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

Six little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

Five little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

Four little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

Three little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

Two little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other until one said,
"I am tired. I'm going to bed."

So, tired and sad, he stopped right then.
He found his cozy, familiar den.
He snuggled down, fell asleep just when
All his friends decided to play again.

Ten little fish swam in a stream.
Red and blue and some were green.
They chased each other and then all said,
"We're not tired. Let's play instead."