

Family Research

Dear Family:

We're working on research skills at school. People are an important source of information for researchers. Help your child develop people-research skills by choosing a survey question together and then teaming up to survey all the members of the family, as well as some neighbors and friends. You can use the back of the page to graph your results.

Select a survey topic (or make up one of your own):

- If you could be an athlete in the Winter Olympics, what sport would you choose?
- What is your favorite fast food?
- In your opinion, what is the best season of the year?
