

Graphs

A graph is a way of showing information. A bar graph uses colored bars to show you how two or more things compare to each other. A pie graph uses slices sized to match the numbers in the data.

A graph can help the reader because the pictures and colors make it easy to compare the differences between a group of things.