

Dear Friends & Family:

I am writing because I want to ask you if you would like to participate in a class project I will be working with students on later this year called "Travel Pals: A Journey for Learning."

Basically, we will be sending out four different stuffed animals across the United States so we can learn about U.S. geography through the eyes of our Travel Pals. The pal comes will come with scrapbook, student made books and timelines about their life and scenes from around Austin.

There are some things I request of participants, like emailing us, completing a scrapbook page etc. nothing over the top. I will send LOTS of options/ideas for creativity. There is no right or wrong way to participate if you are interested.

The purpose of this email is to collect a bunch of addresses and emails from willing participants, so I can get this project ready and going for several months! If you know someone else who might be interested in doing this, please feel free to pass this email along! The more the merrier, that way we can cover as many DIFFERENT states as possible!!!

I am figuring each Travel Pal will stay in place 1-2 weeks and then go somewhere else. They will all be sent back to us in Austin throughout the month of April.

So what do you think?

Best-
Jennifer
